

DuBose Heyward papers 1783-ca. 1955 (bulk 1920-1943)
SCHS 1172.00

Creator: Heyward, DuBose, 1885-1940.

Description: 18 linear ft.

Biographical/Historical note: Charleston, S.C. author. His novel "Porgy" was dramatized in 1927, and Heyward later collaborated with George Gershwin to produce an operatic version of the story, "Porgy and Bess" (1935). His other works include the novels "Peter Ashley" (1932) and "Mamba's Daughters" (1929), as well as poetry and the screenplay for "The Emperor Jones." His wife Dorothy Heyward (1890-1961) and his mother Jane Screven Heyward (1864-1939) were also authors. DuBose Heyward was one of the organizers of the Poetry Society of South Carolina (incorporated 1920) and was resident dramatist at the Dock Street Theatre in Charleston, S.C.

Scope and content: Papers of DuBose Heyward chiefly consist of writings and correspondence. Also included are the papers of Jane Screven Heyward (1882-1940), the Heyward family (1783-1936), the DuBose family (ca. 1790-1904), and the Screven family (1833-1932).

Manuscripts and manuscript fragments (typewritten and holograph) of works written or co-authored by Heyward include poems, novels, plays, short stories, film scenarios, and other writings, with related items such as royalty statements, contracts, review clippings, galley proofs, programs, and correspondence, including letters between Heyward and George Gershwin (originals and transcriptions). Titles include the novels and dramatized versions of "Porgy" and "Mamba's Daughters"; poems, "Carolina Chansons" and "Jasbo Brown and Selected Poems"; novels "Peter Ashley," "Lost Morning," and "Angel"; and the opera "Porgy and Bess."

Also included is Heyward's correspondence with Hervey Allen and many others; financial records, including income tax records and estate records of DuBose Heyward and his uncle Edwin DuBose; property records for various Heyward residences in Charleston (S.C.) and elsewhere; photographs, clippings of poems, travel memorabilia, and other items; a childhood poem (1898); and biographical material on DuBose Heyward.

Records (1938-1945) pertaining to the Dock Street Theatre include records of an annual playwriting competition consisting of programs; forms; correspondence of DuBose Heyward, Robert N.S. Whitelaw, Dorothy Heyward, Clare Booth Luce, and others; clippings; reports; play synopses; lists of plays; and critiques of plays submitted for the competition.

Provenance: Mrs. Dorothy Heyward; gift.

Preferred citation: Heyward, DuBose, 1885-1940. Papers, 1783-ca. 1955 (bulk 1920-1943). (1172.00) South Carolina Historical Society.
