

South Carolina Hunley Commission Papers, 1995-2014
SCHS # 0582.00

Creator: Randall B. Burbage

Description: 3 linear ft. (3 boxes + 6 volumes)

Biographical/Historical Note: Randy Burbage is a native of Charleston and is owner of Randy Burbage Equipment Company. He is a life member of the Sons of Confederate Veterans and has served as commander of the South Carolina Division of the SCV. He was awarded the Order of Palmetto by Governor Carroll Campbell in 1993. In 1995, the governor of South Carolina appointed him to the South Carolina Hunley Commission. Burbage was chairman of the Hunley Funeral Committee from 2002-2004. The Confederate submarine H. L. Hunley was raised from the ocean bottom and put into a conservation tank in North Charleston in August 2000.

Scope and Content: Collection consists of papers mainly reflecting Randy Burbage's activities as a member of the South Carolina Hunley Commission and his leadership and work in preparing the funeral for the crewmen of the submarine. Included are minutes of meetings, correspondence, reports, agreements, printed material and other papers pertaining to the recovery and conservation of the Hunley submarine, sites for a proposed Hunley museum in the Charleston area, publicity and public relations relating to the Hunley, the formation and work of the South Carolina Hunley Commission and the Friends of the Hunley, recovery of the human remains on the submarine, and the funeral for the Hunley crew in Charleston in August 2004. Five scrapbooks covering the same topics include clippings, memorabilia, programs, and correspondence. An oversize binder contains a proposal (2002) to establish a Hunley museum at the old Naval Base in North Charleston, S.C. One of the principal correspondents represented in these papers is state senator Glenn F. McConnell.
