Biographical/Historical note: In 1839, Henry Pinckney Walker (1816-1890), an English attorney, came to live in Charleston, South Carolina, where he practiced law and later entered the consular service. He married Dorothy Modd Box in 1841, and their children included Charles Edward Walker (1843-1885), Henry ("Harry") Pinckney Walker (1845-1865), and George Rivers Walker (1847-1882). Dorothy's brother Kitson Box (1825-1858) immigrated from England and married Rebecca G. Ingraham, the daughter of George Hall Ingraham, on April 5, 1853. George Rivers Walker, the son of Henry Pinckney Walker, married Annie Isabel Keitt (1854-1932). Among their children were Frederick ("Harford") P. Walker (1875-1920), who married Jeanne Preston Frost; and Olivia Margarita (or Marguerite) Walker (1880-1957). After the death of George Rivers Walker his widow Annie married William Gibbes Whaley (1858-1927), a Charleston attorney (Mitchell & Whaley) who later practiced law in New York. Annie Isabel Keitt Whaley (formerly Mrs. George R. Walker), was the daughter of George Daniel Keitt (1818-1871), whose brother, Laurence Massillon Keitt (1824-1864), married Susanna Mandeville Sparks (1834-1915), the daughter of Samuel Sparks and Ann Harry Sparks.

Scope and content: Visual material removed from the Walker Family Papers includes images of Henry Pinckney Walker and Dorothy Modd Box Walker, and their sons Charles Edward Walker, Henry P. Walker, Jr., George Rivers Walker, and Harford P. Walker; Henry Frost Pinckney Walker; Henry William Frost; Laurence Massillon Keitt and his daughter Anna Keitt; Abner Doubleday; George Daniel Keitt; William Gibbes Whaley; Frederick Harford; Alfred R. Walker; and Olivia Margarita P. Walker. There is also a photograph of Henry Pinckney Walker's home in Summerville, S.C.; and an oversize photograph of Jeanne Preston Frost and Marguerite P. Walker at the South Carolina Inter-State and West Indian Exposition. Also of note is a photograph (ca. 1870) of Thomas (Tad) Lincoln with Percy Walker, taken while they were students in Frankfort, Germany. A childhood image of Annie Isabel Keitt Whaley is in the cased photograph collection,
